

God is constantly at work in our lives. Sometimes He reveals Himself through seasons of joy and laughter. Other times we grow nearer to Him by overcoming difficult and painful trials. We also experience God day-to-day simply through ordinary tasks and relationships. In this series we'll hear from a handful of people who have stories of God working in a variety of ways through a range of seasons. Of course we can learn about Jesus by reading the Bible, but we also believe we can grow our faith by listening to and engaging with other believers.

This week we heard from Wendell Loewen from Tabor College. You can watch or listen to his story here: <http://firstmbchurch.org/my-everyday-faith-week-6>.

1. What did you hear God do in Wendell's story? What did you hear Wendell do?

2. What one thing can you take with you for your everyday faith?

We encourage you to document your everyday faith. If you're really brave, we invite you to share your story with us. Visit firstmbchurch.org/my-story and tell how God is at work. Don't worry; we won't share or publish your story unless you'd like us to.
